Open-Ended Responses*1. In what ways did your instructor make learning possible for you during the Spring 2025 semester?

Comments
Practice problems in class.
Mr. Paul (I sincerely apologize I do not know what to refer to him as) was genuinely just a chill dude trying to help us out with calculus. He showed up to class on time, took our feedback on questions, and spent the entire lecture solving out problems to explain the topics to us. While there was no true "structure" within the content (like following it lesson by lesson) that is not a fault of his teaching, that is because all of us were at different levels and wanted to have homework/lecture explained.
really helpful for breaking down difficult problems
He really allowed us to be open with our questions and answered all of them thoughtfully and thoroughly.

2. Which aspects of this course should be kept for future times this course is taught?

Comments

Practice problems.

The question and response sessions were nice!

Allowing us to ask questions from our homework and from the exams was the main way I learned in this course.

This instructor was very kind and was very flexible with his class. He was very thoughtful with feedback and explained concepts thoroughly.

He is always willing to explain concepts to students.

Really cared about our feedback and tried his hardest to always have everyone understand the material
